

Murder

Matei, Stoke Damerel Community College

Early deaths aren't right,
Especially if the person had a future,
Murderers make the innocents fight,
For survival from their literature,

Some will think that it is right for others to be dead early,
But that makes them in blood-thirsty and merciless hunters,
Who seek others who have done nothing badly,
The ones who try to survive in clusters,

Those hunted aren't the only ones who can get involved,
Police, Military and anyone else that are preventers,
Those who try to solve the problem so that one can't evolve,
They never know they can get into the centre,

The feelingless creatures can reach a point,
Of heartless beasts who are in the pinpoint,
The pinpoint of strength,
The strength that lasts a long length.

Some family members of one that got murdered can be like:
"Our son had a bright future like his brother mike,"
Or some others would wish they would,
"Fight back if they even could,"

No one likes death,
Not even the murderers themselves,
The people who got stabbed don't want a last breath,
Instead they want to be with yourselves.
