They wanted Joaquín to be forgotten

BUT HUMANITY WON

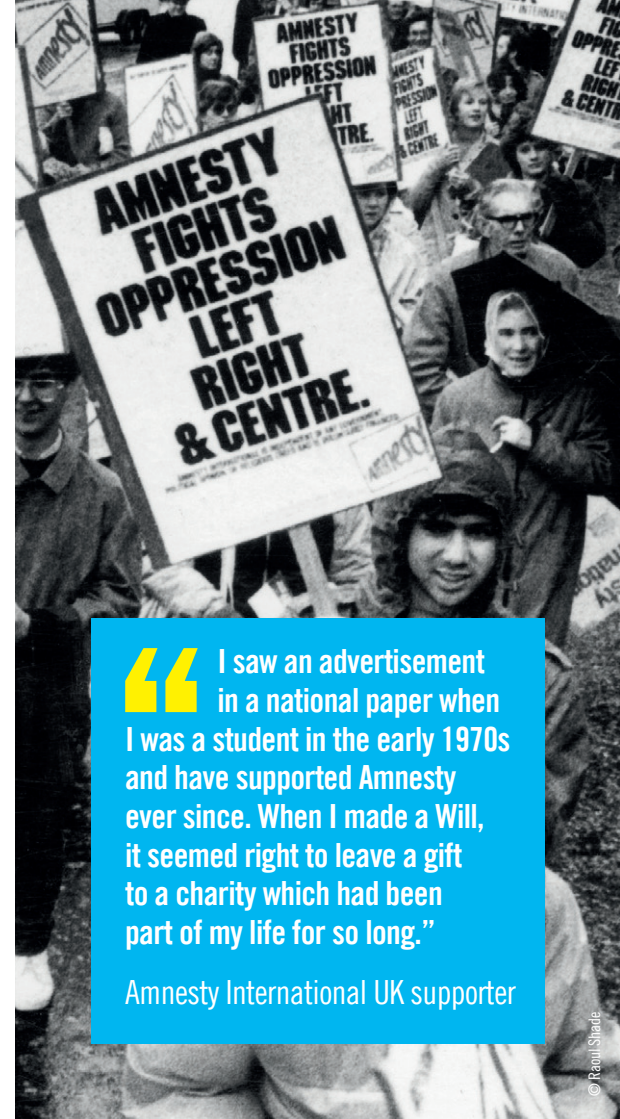

Joaquín Elo Ayeto was arrested at home in Equatorial Guinea in 2019. A human rights defender and member of the country's opposition party, he was tried for defamation and threats against the President. The charges were baseless, so the Amnesty International community got to work – writing tens of thousands of letters and petitioning the authorities for his release. A year later, Joaquín was freed without explanation – and he shared the following message:

“I have been told of the work that you have done for me and I want to thank you for the titanic effort by Amnesty International that has resulted in my release.”

By leaving a gift to Amnesty International UK in your Will, your humanity can live on.

“ I saw an advertisement in a national paper when I was a student in the early 1970s and have supported Amnesty ever since. When I made a Will, it seemed right to leave a gift to a charity which had been part of my life for so long.”

HOW TO PREPARE TO WRITE YOUR WILL

Before you start writing your Will, you can use this simple Will planner to think about:

The value of your estate

List the value of your major assets; also include any debts that could reduce the value of your estate.

People and causes to include in your Will Decide who you want to give to. If you do want to leave a gift to Amnesty International UK, we've suggested some wording on the next page.

Your executors

They're the people who will carry out your wishes (please note that Amnesty International UK cannot act as an executor of your Will).

Any questions you have

If you're not sure about anything, it can help to write down questions in advance.

HOW YOU CAN GIVE IN YOUR WILL

There are three main types of gift you can leave in your Will:

A residuary gift means leaving all or part of your estate, after all other gifts have been given out. As it's a percentage share of your estate, the value of the gift changes with the value of your estate.

A pecuniary gift is a stated sum of money. Its value reduces over time due to inflation.

A specific gift is a specified item, such as a piece of jewellery, a book collection or a car.

They said Shell was too big to take on

BUT HUMANITY WON

© Amnesty International

In the 1990s, the oil giant Shell was causing devastating pollution in Nigeria. The Nigerian government brutally repressed protestors' human rights – and Shell knew what was happening.

Jump forward to 2021, and the UK Supreme Court ruled that communities in the Niger Delta could seek justice from Shell for the environmental damage it caused. Amnesty International, alongside other campaigners, fought for years to hold Shell to account. Together we made it happen. As Mark Dummett, Director of our Global Issues Programme, said at the time:

“Today’s outcome could pave the way for justice for the many others who live with the consequences of Shell’s pollution.”

that my legacy can actually help continue this work is

HUMANITY WINS

when you leave a gift in your Will to Amnesty International UK

Activists Cecillia Chimbiri and Joanah Mamombe (pictured) were abducted, assaulted and jailed for speaking out and challenging the unjust politics in Zimbabwe. As part of our Write for Rights campaign in 2022, supporters like you took action. In July 2023, Joanah and Cecillia were finally acquitted.

“Thank you so much to our Amnesty International friends for writing all these letters. We are now beginning our journey to heal.”
