Amnesty International is concerned about discrimination the Roma face in education and housing across Europe, and the lack of concrete action from European Governments and European Institutions in tackling the systematic institutionalised and informal prejudice that Gypsies and Roma suffer and has intervened cases of discrimination against gypsies and travellers in the UK.

Moving on is a new book about Gypsy, Roma and Traveller communities in Bradford. The book brings together photographs with the words of members of the communities to celebrate their culture and history with a local flavour.

With:
- Violet Cannon: Gypsy and Traveller Inclusion Officer, Thornbury Centre.
- Alex Jagger: Central Europe Coordinator, Amnesty UK
- Tim Smith, Photographer, Moving On*

Questions and Discussion
Short Documentaries and Books

www.facebook.com/BradfordAmnestyInternational

RSVP: noa.kleinman@amnesty.org.uk

*Moving on is a new book about Gypsy, Roma and Traveller communities in Bradford. The book brings together photographs with the words of members of the communities to celebrate their culture and history with a local flavour.

Amnesty International is concerned about discrimination the Roma face in education and housing across Europe, and the lack of concrete action from European Governments and European Institutions in tackling the systematic institutionalised and informal prejudice that Gypsies and Roma suffer and has intervened cases of discrimination against gypsies and travellers in the UK.

Bradford Amnesty International and The Moving On Project present an event for Human Rights Day

Human Rights, History, Identity: Gypsies, Roma and Traveller Communities in Yorkshire, Europe and beyond

Tuesday 10 December 2013  6.30 for 7.00 until 9.00pm
Bradford City Hall (The Saville Room)
(use side entrance opposite the Law Courts)