

SHADOW

by Michael Morpurgo

Harper Collins Children's Books
(Lower secondary)

Shadow, set partly in Afghanistan, partly at Yarl's Wood immigration removal centre in the UK, is the story of Aman, an Afghan boy fleeing the horror of war. Told in his own words, it traces how Aman befriends a western dog which appears outside the caves where he lives with his mother. When Aman and his mother decide to make a bid for freedom, the dog, which Aman has called Shadow, will not leave them. Soon it becomes clear that the destinies of boy and dog are linked.

BACKGROUND

The Taliban took control of Afghanistan in 1996. They imposed very strict rules, based on their interpretation of Islam. They ruled until 2001, when international forces invaded after the 9/11 attacks on the World Trade Centre. Since the invasion, many Afghans have experienced insecurity and poverty.

When people escape persecution in their own country and arrive in the UK, they can apply for asylum. If it is granted, they will be allowed to stay here freely. If it is not, they may be sent back to their original country. This decision can take a long time, during which they may be held in a place like Yarl's Wood. In January 2011, a UK court ruled that detaining children in such centres was illegal.
